Field of the Invention The present invention relates to a disk drive adopting a self-servo writing technique, and specifically to a write reference signal generating circuit. 2. Description of the Related Art A disk drive adopting a self-servo writing technique (SSWT) first writes servo information (pre-format) on a surface of a disk for use in positioning the head during recording and reproducing operation on the disk, and performs a servo writing operation to write servo information on the disk using the servo information (post-format) written thereon beforehand, thereby generating a servo signal 6d1f23a050
